COMPLAINING OF DELAY IN GETTING THEIR The laboring men who work on the county roads complain of difficulty in getting their pay. It seems that the superintendents of these roads employ them to work by the day and keep their time and certify to the correctness of the same. The pay-rolls are made from these time books and the men receive their checks, some of them for small amounts, ranging from two to six or seven dollars; but on presentation to the paymaster at the District auditor's office they find that they must be identified before receiving their money, or else they must have an endorsement of their checks. The result is that they sometimes have to go away without their money and are put to much inconvenience before they get it.

street. His family, consisting of a wife and daughter, have been living in New York. Mr. Chace is fifty, one years of age, of not prepossessing appearance, but has been fond of the society of young women. His business acquaintances are few. This afternoon it leaked out that Chace had eloped with another man's wife and that he had been followed by the irate husband, who had him arrested at Reading. Early in September, George Bubb, a carpenter, and a well-known young man about town, married a young lady of the name of Lizzie Schmidt. He kept the marriage a secret from the public, only his family knowing about it. Miss Schmidt's father is a tinsmith and lives in comfortable circumstances. Lizzie and lives in comfortable circumstances. Lizzie is nineteen years old. Among her acquaintances was Chace, who paid her close attention when her husband was away from home. For several days she has been talking about paying a visit to her married sister, who lives at Tamaqua. She packed her trunk and after bidding her friends good-bye she started for that place yesterday. Chace told his friends that he was going to Philadelphia on business, but instead of going there he went to the depot, met Mrs. Bubb, bought two tickets for Reading and he and the young wife started on their journey. By some means George Bubb heard that everything was not all right, and getting word that his wife was not at Tamaqua he made inquiries and found out that she had gone with Chace. This morning he started after his wife and found the guilty pair in Reading. In a telegram to a friend he said that he had had Chace arrested. and lives in comfortable circumstances. Lizzie

He is said by those who have met him very recently to be in entire accord with the republican ticket and is quietly helping to-wards success. He is now contemplating some outward and visible sign of his approval of the ticket. His friends in Oneida, instead of being the means of rolling up three or four hundred democratic majority, as for Cleveland, expect to go back to a good round majority for the republican candidates. It is claimed that the figures will be quite as high as the majority for Garfield. While the ex-senator is industrially a property of the results of the majority for Garfield. is industriously at work gathering in his liberal retainers, he is not insensible to the interests of his faithful political adherents who have clung to him through good and evil report, and at all times he is ready to serve them in return for their fidelity.

Cellars Filled with Deadly Gases. PECULIAR AND ALARMING STATE OF AFFAIRS

IN A PENNSYLVANIA CITY. A dispatch from Wilkesbarre, Pa., says: It has become generally known that in various portions of this city explosive and inflammable gas from the coal mines under the city has for a long time made its way up through the creviced roofs of the mines into the cellars of buildings At auction sale of miscellaneous stocks at Duncanson Bros. to-day the following prices were realized: 5,000 3-65 bonds, 1157%; 17 shares Farmers and Mechanics' National bank, 159; 8 shares Title Insurance, 1004; 100 shares Riggs Insurance, 7; 100 shares Riggs Insurance, 63; 20 shares Second National bank, 109; 20 ery Hill. It is stated that in that quarter there are cellars which are complete reservoirs of deadly explosives, which only need the contact of flame to spread death and destruction around. One of these buildings is the Hancock public school building, where 600 children are in daily attendance. The danger is considered so great the public prints are demanding that the school authorities at once adopt measures to remove it. The gas is inodorous, thus adding to the danger of its presence. to the danger of its presence.

A Female Stock Poisoner. TRANGE FREAK OF AN INSANE YOUNG LADY A telegram to the New York Herald from St. Louis, Mo., October 18th, says: The little town of Copioma, Nemaha county, Kan., fifty miles west of St. Joseph, Mo., has a sensation the like of which has never been heard of in that community. Near the town lives a well-to-do farmer by the name of John Drown. He came from Peoria, Ill., two years ago with his wife and sister-in-law, a highly accomplished young lady named Nellie McCarthy. After living with Mr. Drown a year Miss McCarthy returned to Peoria, and was supposed by her sister to be teaching school in that vicinity. A few nights ago Mr. Drown's dog was poisoned with strychteaching school in that vicinity. A few nights ago Mr. Drown's dog was poisoned with strychnine, as were also several hogs, and on the same night a neighbor, who was passing Mr. Drown's farm late, saw what he supposed to be a man with a long coat running from the house to the woods. The next night Drown directed his hired man, named Young, to keep a sharp lookout for the prowling stock poisoner and capture him even at the cost of shooting him. Young hid himself by the wood pile and soon after dark heard some one coming cautiously through the timber. It was the figure of a man through the timber. It was the figure of a man in a long coat, wearing a rough slouch hat. The figure stealthily moved toward the house, walked thrice around, peering into the winfor the distance of the report of ricting shaded the figure came toward him had escaped. Hodgson was then taken from the breach to his hotel, where medical aid was had, one side of his head was pounded to a pulp, while his body was frightfully bruised and cut. The injured man had several hundred and cut. The injured man had several hundred collars scattered about in different pockets, for which the attacking party made no search. Hodgson's escape from instant death by the fall seems miraculous.

Kate was employed by Mrs. Hendrickson as assistant for a number of years and it is claimed by the latter that her finances were subject to a constant drain, which was only explained when it was discovered that the employe had a considerable sum of money stored away in her bustle. Mrs. Hendrickson then began to watch her assistant closely, but one day Kate Roach threw herself from a window and was killed. Mrs. Hendrickson then brought suit against the estate of Kate Roach to recover $1,800, claimed to have been embezzied by the deceased. Judge Knickerbocker allowed the claim, but on appeal the decision was reversed. A new trial was obtained, and it is again on hearing before Judge Collins. Evidence was introduced showing that Miss Roach would frequently bring home money and sew the bills into her bustle. Kate Roach. Kate was employed by Mrs. Hen-

The Wisconsin Mill Men's Strike.

PROSPECTS OF A SPEEDY SETTLEMENT. MARINETTE, WIS., October 21 .- As a result t preliminary negotiations entered into there is reason to expect a settlement of the diffi culties between the mill owners and employes before many days. Hundreds of mill operatives are practically seceding from the union and joining the Knights of Labor. Robert Schiller, of Milwaukee, is here and has established seven assemblies, four in Marinette and our in Menominee. There have been initiated about 200, making a total membership of 490. It is intended that this organization shall in time supersede the Menominee river laboring union. A petition addressed to the executive committee of mill owners of Marinette and Menominee was drawn up and agreed to. KANSAS WOMAN CHARGED WITH POISONIM A telegram from Emporia, Kans., October 20 for the murder of her husband by poison was begun here to-day before a jury of farmers selected yesterday. The theory of the state as set forth by County Attorney Feighan is that Mrs. Walkup married her husband with the intention of poisoning him, so as to secure the widow's portion of the estate. Eben Baldwin told how he accompanied Mr. Walkup to New Orleans last December and there met Miss Wallace, whom Mr. Walkup made his wife. A half dozen witnesses testified to the purchases of dry goods by Mrs. Walkup, testimony that was objected to as irrelevant. One physician testified that Mrs. Walkup brought a white powder to him for analysis, which was found to be quinine. W. R. Irwin, druggist, testified that Mrs. Walkup tried to purchase 15 cents worth of strychnine from him on August 14, but as she declined to tell what she wanted it for the poison was not sold to her. Joseph Murphy, a stationer, heard her say in Irwin's drug store that she had purchased strychnine in Cincinnati, but had been given quinine by mistake. Moses H. Bates, a druggist, said the defendant was in his store August 13 to purchase strychnine. As she refused to sign the poison record she did not get the drug.

It's a Mad World. SPIRITUALISTS ARE OFTEN ONLY FOOLS, BUT ALAS FOR LUTHER, MAZZINI, AND CASTELAR

Mrs. Mary Maud Watson, who is trying to show that her grandfather, John Anderson, the obacconist, was incompetent to make the will which has been admitted to probate, called Dr. Theodore Dimond as an expert witness in Judge Van Brunt's court yesterday. This is part of the testimony.

Q.—Is belief in the appearance of the spirits of a human being evidence of insanity, and it so to what extent? A.—Often; yes, sir.

Q.—Is it your belief that all believers in spiritualism are insane. A.—By no means. The world is full of fools on all sides, not necessarily insane.

Q.—Suppose a person sits and talks with the necessarily insane.

Q.—Suppose a person sits and talks with the spirit of a person long since dead, what would that indicate? A.—That he is propably insane.

Q.—What would you think of a man who supposes that his family are attempting to get rid of him in order to possess his property? A.—That he was probably laboring under an insene delusion.

insane delusion.

Q.—Suppose a person, without any apparent cause, is under the impression that members of his family are attempting to put him out of the way for the purpose of getting his property. Is he sane or insane? A.—Probably insane.

Q.—Is such a person competent to make a will? A.—No, sir.

Cross-examined by Mr. Arnoux.—What is the difference between a sane spiritualist and an insane spiritualist? A.—A sane spiritualist is capable by the exercise of reason and indement. insane spiritualist? A.—A sane spiritualist is capable by the exercise of reason and judgment of being convinced of his error, whereas an insane spiritualist is not.

Q.—What kind of a delusion is a person affected by who says he is hunted by ghosts?

A.—An insane delusion.

Q.—Do you remember that Martin Luther thought he was being haunted by the devil, and that he threw his inkstand after him? Would you call him insane? A.—I think he had an insane delusion; I always thought so. [Laughter.]

Q.—Don't you known that Swedenborg claimed to commune with spirits? A.—He might claim to talk with them, but they did not talk with him.

Q.—You would not consider a man who swears insane? A.—If a man who is very plous suddenly became profane it would be an evidence of insanity. dence of insanity.

Dr. James S. Milne was another expert called. On cross-examination he said to Mr. Arnoux that it was an evidence of insane delusion that Mr. Anderson proposed to aid in the establishment first of Italian unity, and therein making the whole of Europe into one universal republic. He also said that a shuffling gait and shaking of the head and limbs indicate a diseased condition of the mind.

Q.—Have you ever heard it said that Gov. Tilden was affected with the shaking of the head and shuffling of the teet? A.—I have.
